REGULAR MEETING OF CITY TRUSTEES

COMFORT STATION FOR THE OUTER END OF PIER.

NEXT MEETING FEBRUARY 18

Boat Landing May Be Provided; Ordinance Passed Licensing Dogs; To Answer Alarms of Fire at Broom Factory.

The regular monthly meeting of the city trustees was held Monday night.

At the suggestion of President Tarbox the Board ordered City Engineer Spencer to prepare plans for the construction of comfort stations on the outer tee of the pier, and close up the opening where the old stairway formerly hung. The comfort stations will be placed next to the pumping station operated by the Huntington Beach Company.

President Tarbox also said that the changes proposed in the men's section of the comfort station under the pier should be made before the opening of the season. Trustee Huston stated that since there was someone in charge who knew how to care for the place there was no longer any need for the change. As the city engineer's estimate on the change was about $300, P. Ringville, who is now taking care of the station, may be given credit for having saved the city that amount by his efficient service.

Boat Landing Suggested.

While the improvement of the outer end of the pier was being discussed, Trustee Huston stated he was of the opinion that a boat landing at the end of the pier would be of inestimable value to Huntington Beach. Trustee Vavra thought the cost would probably be too great at this time, but later agreed to allow the city engineer to prepare an estimate of the cost, as Trustee Huston stated he did not think the cost would be prohibitive, and asked Mr. Spencer to inspect the landing at the new pier in Long Beach, which was about what would be required here.

Will Protect Broom Factory.

E. E. French, president of the Chamber of Commerce, stated that the Chamber appointed a committee to ask the Board to take some action toward answering fire alarms from the Beach Broom Company saying that such action would probably help the company in securing fire insurance and prevent them from moving away on account of not being able to get insurance.

Trustee Vavra moved that the Board go on record that alarms would be answered and protection afforded where there was water available outside the city; which prevailed, after being seconded by Trustee Decker.

On motion of Trustee Chapin the salary of the city marshal was raised from $90 per month to $100 per month, and that of the city clerk fixed at $125 per month, the same as in the past, but in the past this amount has been paid from two funds.

Trustee Huston thought that some arrangement should be made to pay the chief of the fire department a small amount for taking care of the new fire truck when it was ready for service, as that was about the only way it would always be ready for quick work. President Tarbox thought the matter should be left to the new Board, which will be organized in April.

Wm. C. O'Connor stated he was not writing fire insurance, but if there was to be any reduction in the insurance rates that was what would have to be done.

President Tarbox said the rates would remain the same no matter what the Board did with the equipment. Mr. O'Connor said that the city would have to do these things first before any action on the part of the underwriters could be expected.

An ordinance was introduced licensing junk dealers and fixing the fee at $25 per annum for a man who has a fixed place, and $100 for the one who comes in the city and collects junk.

City Manager Spencer reported that there were two houses on Eighteenth street that desired light service, and the Southern California Edison Company would serve them if permitted to set poles along the street, and it was agreed to allow them to do so, and a resolution will probably be passed at the meeting February 18th allowing the company to use the street for that purpose.

The license ordinance is published in this issue of the News, and fixes the tax on male dogs at $1.50 and females at $4.

ATTENDED MEETING AT FAIRVIEW FARMS.

INTERESTING MEETING OF GOOD FARMERS.

A delegation from the Huntington Beach Chamber of Commerce attended a meeting of the Fairview Farms Improvement Association, on the Newport mesa, Tuesday evening.

It is doubtful if a more progressive, intensified farming community can be found in California than those of the Fairview Farms, and the meeting Tuesday evening reminded one of the old-fashioned town meetings that the poets have sung about for generations, and Judge Copeland aptly stated that he found the people of Huntington Beach had evidently borrowed the community spirit from Fairview Farms.

The meeting was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Wilkinson, who have charge of the avocado orchard on the tract, being the regular monthly gathering of the families of the community.

Dr. Wherry, a retired physician, had charge of the program, which, he announced, would be a symposium on beans. The first topic was that of soil preparation by W. W. Middleton, president of the association, who said that the prime object of every farmer should be that of a dust mulch, three or four inches deep, as if the mulch was not more than one inch, as he had noticed in some fields, it would not hold the moisture, as the ground would cake and the moisture at the lower levels would be extracted. Unless there was a heavy growth to be turned under, he did not think it was necessary to plow the land every year, but that chiselling would be sufficient if the work was thorough and deep, from eight to twelve inches. The mulch, he said, was vitally essential if a profitable crop was to be harvested. With a mulch of at least four inches, he said, all of the moisture would remain in the ground.

Mr. Wilkinson followed with a talk on planting, saying that his experience was somewhat limited in the bean culture line. Last year, he stated, the first planting in the orchard was May 15, when fifteen acres were seeded, and a week later fifteen more. The best stand was from the second planting, the last planting being June 1. The stand, he said, depended considerably upon weather conditions following the planting.

James Smith talked about irrigation, and said there would be about as many ideas about irrigating as there were bean growers. He had found that the work must be done before the vines were too large, or proper cultivation would be interfered with, which was equally as essential as was the water. With care, he said, a good crop could be grown with one irrigation, but many preferred two—which was frequently necessary.

The marketing phase of the question was handled by Norris Mellotte. He said that he had only grown two crops of blackeyes. The first season he contracted the crop early in the season for $4.50 per cwt., and last year did not sell until the beans were threshed and received eight cents per pound for them. Mr. Mellotte believed that the standard of the crop marketed could be improved by placing a tag in the bag giving the name of the grower and where grown.

Dr. Wherry said that many had wondered where the blackeyes were consumed and what became of them, as few of those who grew them thought of eating them. Therefore, he said, he had asked Mrs. Wilkinson to tell those present how to cook the blackeye bean.

Mrs. Wilkinson told in a highly interesting manner her experience in obtaining information about how to cook this particular bean, saying that one woman had exclaimed. "Why, don't cook them at all! They'll stink you out of the house!" However, she said that ways had been found to prepare the beans, and she served generous samples to all present, prepared Spanish style and otherwise, and the blackeyes were found palatable by the large number present. Cake and chocolate were served afterwards. Hazel Mellotte rendered a piano solo which was appreciated.

Wm. C. O'Connor and City Attorney Alex. P. Nelson explained the proposed Farmers' Produce Exchange being promoted by the Huntington Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Talks were made by E. E. French, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and R. C. Turner about a better road from the mesa to Huntington Beach. After some discussion as to the best way to secure the best results the matter was disposed of by a motion by George Hall that a committee of three be appointed to act in conjunction with a similar committee from the Huntington Beach Chamber of Commerce at the meeting of the Board of Supervisors next Tuesday.

Dr. Wherry auctioned off a big head of cauliflower and a large egg for the benefit of the Red Cross work, which sold for $2.65 and $1.05.

TENT CITY SELLS TO METHODIST ASSEMBLY

DEAL CLOSED IN THIS CITY MONDAY.

BIG IMPROVEMENTS IN SIGHT

Two Dormitories for Women are Planned for this Year; Other Improvements Will Follow Each Year.

The property of the Huntington Beach Tent City Company has been purchased by the Huntington Beach Methodist Assembly, and in the future the Assembly will have charge of the grounds.

This transaction has been pending for some time, and was closed up Monday afternoon by representatives of the Tent City Company and Rev. S. S. Samson of Corona, president, and Rev. F. D. Mather of Pasadena, treasurer, of the Assembly.

While the Assembly has agreed by this transfer to spend $25,000 in improving the premises in the next few years, owing to the war, as much cannot be spent in the near future as was expected when the negotiations were inaugurated prior to the entry of this nation into the conflict. However, it is thought by those in charge of the Assembly affairs that two dormitories for women can be erected on the grounds this year, which will be on the block bounded by Eleventh street and Magnolia avenue.

When these improvements have been completed, Huntington Beach will become one of the religious centers of the state, as it will be the meeting place of most of the denominations of Southern California.

SERGEANT TURNER HOME ON FURLOUGH.

EXPECTS TO SOON BE SENT TO FRANCE.

Sergeant Forest B. Turner of Camp Johnston, Florida, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. A Turner, arrived in Huntington Beach Tuesday morning on the first train on a 20-day furlough. Forest expects to soon enter the foreign service, and thought he would like to visit home before going abroad. He will return Wednesday of next week, and will serve as an automobile machinist.

Wednesday morning, Mr. Turner addressed the Student Body of the High school, where he was a student before enlisting. He states that the winter climate in Florida is abominable as compared with that of Southern California, there having been but little sunshine since he arrived at Camp Johnston.

Sergeant John B. French, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. French, is also at this camp, and, Forest says, will enter the foreign service as a mess sergeant.

RED CROSS NEWS.

The ladies of the Methodist church have loaned a sewing machine to the auxiliary.

If those who do not knit will come in on Friday, they can take home garments to be finished.

In the East, the Red Cross Societies are knitting for the soldiers in Europe, while in the West, the articles are for the boys in the camps.

One of the first articles of clothing given to James Clark, who enlisted in the navy a few days ago, was a sweater from the Red Cross.

The room in the basement of the library is open Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons, from 1:30 to 5 o'clock.

TRADE-AT-HOME WEEK MARCH 4TH TO 9TH.

ARRANGEMENTS BEING MADE FOR NEXT EVENT.

The week of March 4th to 9th, inclusive, will be Trade-at-Home Week in Huntington Beach. The complete plans will be announced next week.

There have always been many good reasons why it is to the advantage of all concerned for us all to trade at home, but there are many additional reasons just now.

Traffic conditions are such at present that, to relieve the congestion, it is necessary that local materials be used, instead of adding to the already tremendous problem which the country is facing of taking care of vitally necessary shipping; and, besides, the uncertainty, long delay and additional expense attending all shipping make much of what before might have been fairly satisfactory dealing very unprofitable and unsatisfactory.

Again, higher postal rates, tax on all express packages, and an 8 per cent tax on all railroad fares add materially to the expense of doing business away from home. Besides, in trading at home we get what we want when we want it, and do our bit toward making our home town a bigger and better town to live in.

There are also some other matters that will be discussed at this meeting, and all are cordially invited to attend.

There has been more activity in the Chamber during the past eight months than at any time for the past five years, and much good has been accomplished.

MR. NELSON WAS "FOUR-MINUTE" MAN SATURDAY.

City Attorney Alex. P. Nelson was the "Four-Minute" man at the Princess theatre Saturday night, making a splendid short patriotic talk.

Mr. Nelson said that he had received word from Washington, D. C., that, while the newspaper reports indicated that the submarine warfare was a failure, the fact remained that ships were being sunk faster than they could be built. He urged everybody to support the government in every possible manner.

THE POULTRY SHOW A SPLENDID SUCCESS

LARGE NUMBER OF BIRDS EXHIBITED.

MANY FINE ONES OWNED HERE

Event Great Surprise to Everybody; Was Conducted in First Class Style; General Satisfaction Expressed.

The Community Poultry and Pet Stock Show closed Saturday evening at 5 o'clock in a blaze of unbounded success. Most of those who attended the show were amazed at the wonderful display of poultry from such a limited territory. In this respect, the event resembled the Community Fall Festival, which was held so late in the season that many did not think there could possibly be much of a display of products, but the festival proved to be a show that rivaled the old-fashioned county fair, and surprised everybody who witnessed it. It was the same with the poultry show. There were many who did not think there could be much of a show when such a small district was included. The judges were men who have witnessed many poultry shows, and they were astonished at the number and quality of birds on exhibition from so small a section of the county. One old gentleman, who has long since passed the allotted three score and ten years of material existence, stated that it was the best show he had ever inspected, and he had visited many of them during his long span of life.

The judges were Dr. G. Irwin Royce, editor of the Pacific Poultry and Pet Stock Monthly, and Harold Walthew of Los Angeles, and their work resulted in general satisfaction. N. J. Fuiks of Rivera, in the Whittier district, who makes a specialty of taking charge of such affairs, had general supervision of the show and rendered excellent service. Mr. Fuiks stated it was a wonderful show for a small community.

The attractive features of the show were the peafowls belonging to Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Heffner, that were cooped in one of the big show windows, and the big cage of song birds entered by Mrs. Robert Wardlow of Talbert, containing 25 birds, including 4 strains of canaries, 2 of parrakeets, zebra finch, linnet and wild dove. The linnet was raised by one of the canaries, the egg being taken from the nest of the wild bird and placed in the cage, and Mrs. Wardlow states it is the most beautiful singer of the lot.

The 8 canaries in a big cage, entered by Mrs. R. E. McIntosh, also attracted much attention and comment.

Edgar Edwards was awarded the prize for the best cock entered in the show, being a Rhode Island Red. M. E. Grate carried off the honors for the best pen, the birds being Black Minorcas. C. P. Cunningham entered the best game bird, a hen of the Cuban pit strain. H. F. Gibbs displayed the best rabbit, a senior doe Flemish Giant, and Mrs. R. A. Williams the best of the same breed, with litter.

The following is from a letter which appeared in the Santa Ana Register over the signature of D. W. McDannald, Orange county lecturer at the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce:

"During the past seventy-five or hundred years, it has been my good fortune to evade the gatekeeper at a great many poultry shows, here, there and elsewhere, and I am going to make a statement and with it stake my reputation as a man of unquestioned veracity, that seldom have I seen, even at a state, or national poultry show, a better collection of well-bred birds than are exhibited here.

"The 'Hustlers' of Huntington Beach are certainly marvels of thrift and thoroughness, and anything they undertake to do is done well."

"THE GLORY OF YOLANDA" FOR SATURDAY NIGHT

"The Fighting Trail" Sunday Night.

"THE WHIP," A GREAT PICTURE, WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

"The Glory of Yolanda," at the Princess theatre Saturday night, featuring that charming screen favorite, Anita Stewart, in a story of intrigue in European society that brings out the fine points of this clever girl's interpretation of the leading character.

The Vitagraph special comedy, "He Never Touched Me," with Hughie Mack in the cast, will be something new.

The Ford Weekly, showing Richmond, Va., and its environments, will prove interesting.

On Sunday, Feb. 10th, will begin that grand serial, "The Fighting Trail." This story was a headline act on the Pantages circuit for fifteen weeks, and received just as much attention as any act on the bill. It is an outdoor story of the West, taken in the Sierra mountains, featuring Wm. Duncan and Carol Halloway, co-stars in this wonderful production.

The great story will be published weekly in the Huntington Beach News, the first episode appearing today and continuing for fifteen weeks.

Do not miss the story in the paper or showing of the picture, for it is full to the brim of sure-fire thrills.

Included with this already great feature, Earl Williams, Edith Story and Kate Price will be seen in "Chains of an Oath." Then we have Clara Kimball Young, Darwin Keer and Donald Hall in "Betty in the Lions' Den," a one-reel comedy. The "Pathe-Hearst Gazette" will mark the beginning of a Sunday variety program not to be excelled in the United States.

"The Whip," the great film that will be shown Wednesday night, was originally shown at the Drury Lane theatre in London, making one of the most sensational records ever recorded. The train wreck was staged in Maryland, and is one of the most realistic ever witnessed, and caused a sensation in the country where it happened, and doctors were called from all over the district by people who did not know it was a "movie" wreck.

Another realistic scene is the fox hunt, which was filmed from a real hunting scene taken from one of the fashionable society club hunts. All women will be interested in the wonderful gowns shown in this picture.

The race track scene is also one of tremendous interest, and when "Whip" is rode to victory by "Diana," after slipping on her father's turf colors, there is great excitement.

Those who have witnessed this picture have been impressed with the splendid delineation of character in this big film, and the spectator almost forgets that he is looking at a picture.

There are eight reels of film, and "The Whip" is considered one of the great pictures now on the screen.

WEEKLY GREETING.

Particularly these things are to be sought: The spirit of Love; of self-sacrifice; of purity; of energy.—Gladstone.

THE TWELVE STATES WHERE WOMEN VOTE.

There are now twelve states where women enjoy equal voting privileges with the men. Women have been granted partial suffrage in thirty-three other states of the Union, and in only thirteen are they entirely ignored. The dark states, so far as this great reform is concerned, are Texas, Missouri, Indiana, Alabama, Tennessee, Georgia, the two Carolinas, both Virginias, Pennsylvania, Maine and Vermont.

The first state to grant full suffrage to women was Wyoming, which occurred way back in 1869. No one paid much attention to the innovation granted to the women of the sparsely settled commonwealth of the far west for almost a quarter of a century, when Colorado followed with a suffrage amendment in 1893. Three years later, in 1896, the states of Idaho and Utah honored the women with the voting privilege. In 1910, fourteen years later, the state of Washington granted women the right to vote at all elections; California, 1911; Oregon, Arizona, Kansas, Montana and Nevada, 1914, and New York in 1917.

THE GREAT CRISES.

The great crises of life are often like a bolt out of the blue of a summer day; there is not a moment for preparation. In such crises all that a man has been doing in the way of preparation suddenly bears fruit. He often acts instinctively; he does that which he is in the habit of doing and, because he is in the habit of doing his best and all his instincts prompt him to put forth the best that is in him, he seizes the golden moment and does not discover until afterward that it was golden—Hamilton Mabie.

Whosoever believeth that wrath is righteous, or that divinity is appeased by human suffering, does not understand God.—Mary Baker Eddy.

The devil tempts us not—'tis we tempt him, beckoning his skill with opportunity.—George Eliot.

SAYS 25 TONS PER ACRE SHOULD BE GROWN.

(From "The Sugar Bowl.")

That growers are not getting the standard of efficiency in the production of sugar beets and beans is conceded by everyone, and this is the fundamental cause of the widespread complaint in regard to prices.

We are farming three acres to produce what one should, requiring three times the labor and expense and using three times the amount of land necessary to produce a ton of beets. In other words, the average production is about 9 tons per acre, when it should be 25 tons.

A standard maximum yield would be from a field where the rows were 18 inches apart and beets 10 inches in the row, weighing two pounds each. This would give 35 tons per acre, a yield that is being made every year by farmers over widely separated areas.

There isn't a grower who should be satisfied with less than 75 per cent of a standard yield. If you are not getting this it is due to causes which any grower can remedy. If your land is well drained and you are planting cover crops to build up your soil; if you are rotating with other crops and have available land, you can get the standard of efficiency from your land and labor.

Remember that in every 10-acre field the soil is not uniform, and different soils require different treatment. No man can secure a civil service position unless he can pass the examination, which requires more than 75 per cent of efficiency. No walnut grower would be satisfied with his groves if only 25 per cent of his trees were bearing, nor would the bean grower, if he only had 25 per cent of a stand and 75 per cent was not producing.

It would be far better for the individual grower and the industry at large if one-half the acreage in California was devoted to soil-building crops, and on the remaining 50 per cent secure a perfect stand and grow two-pound beets on each 10 inches in the 18-inch row.

"The Sugar Bowl" will spare no effort to assist every grower of sugar beets and beans to reach the standard of efficiency for his farm. There are growers who are doing this, and you can do so, and reap the full reward for your labor and capital.

WRITES LETTER FROM FRANCE.

Claude Leatherman received a letter a few days ago from Clarence Hunt, who is now in France. The letter was badly mutilated by the censor, and stated that the weather was cold and disagreeable.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY.

Christian Science Society services held Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, at the corner of Eighth St. and Olive avenue. The subject for Sunday, Feb. 10th, will be: "Spirit." Sunday school at 9:30 a. m. Wednesday evening meetings at 8 o'clock. Reading room in church open Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons from 2 till 4, where the Bible and authorized Christian Science literature may be read or purchased if desired.

Don't you remember Christmas morning, when you received those photographs and pictures of a like nature? They were nice and fresh looking then, but how are they now, or how will they look in about six months? Will they be as they were when you received them, or will they be all finger-marked, dusty, dog-eared and hopelessly ruined?

An inexpensive frame will preserve them nicely for you, and they will be as attractive years from now as they are today.

Rigdon's Studio, at 137 Main street, is showing an exceptional line of mouldings, including many of a moderate price, from which your selection may be made with all due regard for suitability in price and appearance.

There has also been received a new line of sheet pictures, in the better grade of work, sepias, hand-tinted, etc., and a clever line of comics that has just been published. These are the same pictures that you admire in the large art shops in the city, and are marked here at a considerable reduction from city prices.

The agreement reached at the Ocean View school house, Saturday, between the Celery Growers' Association and the California Vegetable Union, settled the matter of handling the crop for two years. The Union will act as selling agent and receive a commission of 1¾ cents per dozen for celery selling for less than 18 cents per dozen, and 2¼ cents for that selling for more than 18 cents, the Association to pay for loading cars and furnish car strips. It was after 11 o'clock when the mass meeting was called to order by President Geo. W. Moore. W. T. Newland was elected chairman, and Chas. C. Johnson, secretary. There was a long discussion over the growers furnishing the strips, the principal speakers being Dennis McGirk, W. H. Bentley, Mr. Newland, Mr. Moore, D. E. Ford, Fred and Charles Heil, Mr. Cronemiller, Mr. Hazeltine and M. C. Cole.

The deal includes the building and stock, and the transaction is given as $7,378. Mr. Leatherman moved his family to Santa Ana, where he will engage in the grocery business.

At the election, Saturday, the proposition to issue bonds for $35,000 for the construction of a new High school building carried by a vote of 115 to 15. The only opposition to the bonds was from residents of the Newbert Protection District, and it is believed that all of the 15 negative votes were cast by voters of that locality.

HARBOR BOND ELECTION PROBABLY APRIL SIXTH.

ASSOCIATED CHAMBERS ENDORSE NEWPORT HARBOR.

At the meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange county in Brea last week, the Newport harbor bonding proposition was endorsed, a motion prevailing unanimously that the supervisors be asked to take early action on the matter of calling an election.

The final report of the Harbor Commission has been filed with the supervisors, and the bond election will probably be called for April 6th, two days prior to the municipal elections in all cities of the sixth class.

There appears to be but little doubt about the bonds carrying, as the fact has been pointed out that the improvement of Newport harbor will accommodate several ship-building companies, and there is nothing at this time which is more essential in winning the war than ships.

CHAMBER OF COM. IS HIGHLY PRAISED.

HAS GREAT FAITH IN FUTURE OF THIS CITY.

Editor "The News:"

I have been a resident of Huntington Beach just one month now, and since I decided some months ago to locate here, I have followed with interest and a great degree of satisfaction the activities of our local Chamber of Commerce.

This organization shows that it is alive and is doing splendid work. I am especially impressed with, and think that the various "Community Stunts" pulled and contemplated are of great benefit; they not only keep the home fires burning, but cast reflections, which others are bound to recognize. I have had considerable experience in Chamber of Commerce and mercantile work, and know how difficult it is to get energetic men to neglect their own business to boost and serve on committees for the benefit of the community; but this town seems especially fortunate in having willing workers, and it is the duty of every citizen to show their appreciation of the time and efforts expended by hearty co-operation and using their influence to stimulate interest.

And just a word of appreciation for our school system, which I believe is second to none in the state. The faculties are to be highly commended for their progressiveness and interest taken in the pupils, for, as one of my children remarked recently, she likes to go to school here because there is always something new.

I have great faith in the future of Huntington Beach, and in noting the progress of the past decade, I see in the future the prospects of a second Long Beach; so let's all boost, to the end that "Our Town" may be a better and bigger town; and if there be those who can't boost, let them find "Their Town" and go to it.

Yours truly,
L. A. STEVENSON.

THE MISSION PLAY NOW IN ITS SIXTH SEASON.

The Mission Play, John S. McGroarty's exquisite story of early California, enters this week on the fourth week of the sixth year of its existence, and is attracting record breaking crowds to the comfortable mission playhouse, in the shadow of the historic mission at San Gabriel.

Those who have seen this year's presentation pronounce it, if anything, superior to those of former years, and that finished actor, Norval MacGregor, is winning new laurels in the part of Fray Junipero Serra.

Great interest is being manifested by the residents of the near-by cities in the Mission Play, and many excursions are being arranged under the auspices of the Chambers of Commerce of the cities of Southern California. Sunday seems to be a popular day for these trips, and it is possible that an excursion will be run from this city in the near future.

And when the rainy days come the tourists in our midst will find the cozy mission playhouse at San Gabriel a most comfortable place to visit, when the inclemency of the weather prevents outdoor sight seeing.

The Mission Play, with its large cast of over one hundred living actors, has become one of the sights of California, and one that no visitor can afford to miss.

CLIFFORD HAND WRITES TO CARLOS RIGDON FROM FRANCE.

December 22nd, 1917.

Dear Friends:

I have written so many letters since coming over here, I don't remember whether I wrote you or not; but if I did, I guess another won't hurt.

Little I thought when I talked with you three months ago that I would be in France so soon. But once Uncle Sam gets things going, he loses no time in finishing it. I have been on the jump ever since the 18th of September, and am still at it. There is only one thing that will move me faster, and that is to let a German get on the west side of me with a bayonet on his gun longer than mine. I always possessed a pretty good sense of humor, but that does not appeal to me A-TALL.

But, seriously, contrary to what I thought when in the States, I, nor any of my bunch, feel nearer the war than we did some time ago. Things are taken as a matter of course, and the fact that we are right in a war-ravaged country does not affect the boys in the least—unless it makes them all the more anxious to get into it. And that is the spirit of most of them. I can't say how they will feel about it after their first action in the lines.

This is the fourth company I have been in, but think I will stay here. I surely hope so, as I am getting tired of moving so much. Just get well acquainted with the boys and then get put in another company.

We are the first drafted men to get across the big pond, and are in a company with a bunch of regulars. My bunch have been pretty well split up, but three of us from the same district in Los Angeles are still together.

Life here is sure great. We are right in the heart of town, living in French houses or "billets." The houses are all two-story, built straight up from a narrow street. We are upstairs, above a French family, who run a sort of cafe. The whole regiment is scattered over town in much the same way.

You see few, if any, Frenchmen in civil life. Most of the work seems to be done by old men, women and children. Although this particular town shows no signs of active warfare, the lack of business, etc., tells the story. Of course, there are stores where you can buy most anything you want, but you may walk several blocks without seeing a civilian.

There has been snow on the ground for ten days or so, but it does not seem very cold when you keep busy. Our sleeping quarters are good and we have stoves—or will have tomorrow. Moved from one house to another this P. M., and did not get a stove going yet.

Am at the Y. M. C. A. now. There are several in every camp. That organization should be highly praised for the work they are doing among the boys everywhere, because everywhere you may see that red triangle and know that there you will find a welcome, with a good fire, music, reading and writing material. They also serve hot drinks, etc. They are not only in the camps, but on the firing line—in the same danger as the soldiers—and it is no uncommon occurrence for their hut to get blown up, but they soon find a place to set up business again. And, better than all, you go up to buy a hot drink, and a real, honest-to-goodness American girl waits on you. Of course, there are lots of pretty French girls, but you know I don't like to talk(?) to them.

Suppose you would like to hear some war news direct from the front, eh? Well, you can get more of it out of the Huntington Beach News in one issue than you can here in a month of Sundays. In fact, a Huntington Beach News would be a welcome gift here, as some of us have not seen a U. S. paper since leaving Camp Mills, Long Island, N. Y. Have been on the move so much that no mail from home has caught up with me for five weeks; but it will start again soon, and then come in bunches for a while.

Tell everyone hello; that I am having a good time, and will be home when I get the Kaiser.

My hands are so cold I can hardly hold the pen, so will call this off for the present.

Now, by all means, don't forget to write, for letters are a Godsend over here.

Best regards to all.

Yours truly,

PRIVATE CLIFFORD E. HAND,
Co. C, 1st U. S. Engrs., A. E. F. via New York.

SUNSET BEACH NEWS.

The coast road at the southern approach to the bridge at Anaheim Landing is in a wretched condition, and it is said that dozens of motorists daily turn and go back rather than venture breaking their machines in trying to pass through the ruts and chuckholes at that point. There should be a concerted movement on the part of the business men of Sunset, Huntington and Newport beaches to see that this road is kept open and in good repair.

Due to the closing of the hunting season, the popping of guns ceased on the evening of January 31; but, no doubt in order to keep us from getting lonesome, Occidental College sent down a bunch of her most vigorous rooters on the day following for the week-end, and the "rah-rah boys" kept the welkin ringing until Monday, when they left with a whoop and a hurrah.

Mrs. L. Hayward of Alberta, Canada, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Mathews. Mrs. Hayward is well pleased with Sunset Beach, and expects to remain for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Wells are down from Los Angeles for a week or ten days, putting their house in order for spring and summer.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hogan, who have wintered at Sunset Beach the past four or five seasons, expect to remove to Los Angeles the latter part of March. ***

HENRY BROOKS WRITES FROM CAMP LEWIS.

Camp Lewis, 1918.

Dear friends:

Just a line to let you know that Camp Lewis is still on the map. I spoke to the Tacoma High school yesterday on physical culture and athletics, and have been invited to introduce the Kansas City system of calisthenics in the 54th St. Grammar school next Wednesday.

Owing to the fact that many of my battalion have been out on special details, I only have about 400 men now from 610. I find my work well appreciated, and as it is a different line to me in the army work, I find it very interesting.

The weather is very nice here now. I have asked for a transfer to a larger field in physical culture, therefore I may be transferred to some colored camp in the East. You shall hear from me from time to time. I would appreciate some of your past issues of the News. With regards to the office force, I close.

Respectfully,

H. M. BROOKS.

CARS NOW RUNNING THROUGH TWIN PEAKS TUNNEL.

A new extension of the San Francisco Municipal Railroads was opened recently, when the first cars were run through the newly-completed Twin Peaks Tunnel, the largest street railway traffic tunnel in the world.

The tunnel is 12,000 feet long, cost $4,000,000 and is a part of the two largest projects of the Rolph administration, which is building the Municipal Railroads and the Hetch Hetchy Water System to supply transportation and municipally-owned water to sections of the city now without them, or inadequately supplied by private corporations.

The tunnel opens direct communication between 4,152 acres of the beautiful Sunset district and the heart of the business section.

The $4,000,000 were raised in a benefited assessment district, while the additional $250,000 for connecting up the tunnel with the Municipal Railroad system and running tracks through it came out of profit account of the Municipal roads.

A car can run through the tunnel in three and one-half minutes, at forty miles an hour, and the working schedule of the cars will not exceed six minutes. The west portal, in the Sunset district, will be twenty-four minutes from the heart of the city, as against the present schedule of forty-four minutes. As an engineering achievement the tunnel is a triumph of M. M. O'Shaughnessy, San Francisco's city engineer.

The Sunset district is one of the most beautiful residence districts in California. Given transportation and water and its future is assured. Many of the most beautiful residence parks in the city are tributary to the tunnel, reached in the past only by motor or car service that went around instead of through the Twin Peaks. The tunnel is one of the many big constructive measures that have made San Francisco's recent municipal history a period of unexampled achievement and progress.

"THE FIGHTING TRAIL."

"THE PRICELESS INGREDIENT."

First Episode at Princess Theatre on Wednesday Night.

Balterman leaned forward impressively in his chair.

"There is nothing further to be left to doubt, gentlemen," he said. "Only one thing remains: We must go ahead, though the cost be millions. Do you agree with me?"

The others about the directors' table merely stared. They were afraid to answer. Men of millions, rulers in the world of finance, capable of hurling the Stock Exchange into furious panic by a mere utterance, they feared to say the words that would start the wheels of a nation turning to carry out a mighty aim. Still, as they stared across the table at Balterman, they shrank. Strong, wealthy, powerful as they were, Balterman was greater. He glared at them a moment and spoke again.

"I repeat, gentlemen, what I have just said." His words were quietly spoken and calm, but they carried the whole force of his character. He fluttered the yellow sheet of a cablegram in his fingers. "This message is decisive. It means possibly conquest for our country. Alone, it is enough for me. You know, all of you, that we control the greatest explosive in existence; you were present when the government tests were made and announced successful. You know, also, that cinnabar is a necessary ingredient of that explosive. We must have cinnabar, and, gentlemen, I intend that we shall have it.

"The supply of California has been worked to the limit. Spain has emptied its mines. Every known resource has been exhausted. There is but one man who can fill our orders. We must enlist the aid of John Gwyn. I do not know where he obtains the supply, and I don't care. I know that he can meet our demands, and I know that he is honest. I am satisfied. Gentlemen, what do you say?"

It took but a moment, after the decision had been reached by his conferees, for him to pick up the telephone and call a number. He did not delay an instant. Time, at this moment, meant lives. He reached Gwyn's secretary, then Gwyn.

"Mr. Gwyn?" he questioned. "This is Balterman. We would like to see you immediately on a matter of grave importance. We shall wait for you. Good!" Balterman hung up the receiver and turned again to the men about the table. "Gwyn is coming right over. You can take him absolutely into your confidence. He is surprisingly young for the influence which he wields, but the point to remember is that he is just as big as his job. And he's on the level."

The others nodded.

It was less than fifteen minutes before Gwyn was announced. He came into the room with a briskness that contrasted sharply with the august dignity of the directors who were deliberating over such a weighty problem, and shook Mr. Balterman heartily by the hand.

Balterman lost no time in getting to the point.

"We have been conferring about our new explosive," he announced. "You no doubt have heard of it. There are certain ingredients which are essential in the manufacture of it and which we are desirous of obtaining. One of these is cinnabar. It is imperative that all our plans and operations be absolutely confidential, for there will be much in our actions that would be invaluable to the Central Powers. We realize that our every move, despite the discretion with which it is made, is closely followed by the agents of those Powers. You, Gwyn, are the man we have chosen to supply us with cinnabar, as we understand that you have an unlimited supply and because we know that we can rely upon your confidence."

"I thank you for the honor of taking me into your confidence," Gwyn replied, "and I can assure you that it has not been misplaced. I appreciate, however, as you must, the vastness of this task to which you are assigning me. Your demand alone will surpass all others that I have been receiving in the past—it will necessitate improvements and enlargements at the source of my supply, in order for me to meet it, and I shall have to cancel immediately all orders for the future."

"But we shall pay you well," reminded Balterman.

"However," continued Gwyn firmly, sweeping the assemblage with his eyes, "since we are agreed on the most important point, I can supply you with what you require. I happen to know, gentlemen, no matter through what channels of information, that you cannot manufacture your new explosive without cinnabar. I believe, also, that I am the only man on earth who can locate the latter. Therefore, while you can exploit your explosive—the greatest in existence—I control it. My price to you, gentlemen—the lowest I can offer—is a bonus of two million dollars and the market price for all of the material with which I furnish you."

"Gentlemen," asked the leader, "what disposition do you care to make regarding Mr. Gwyn's proposition?"

"It is nothing! It is everything!" Balterman shouted impatiently. "The price may be ridiculous, but it is also reasonable—it is important. There is no need to dicker childishly with Mr. Gwyn. It would be useless. He understands our situation, as he informed us. He knows that we cannot secure cinnabar anywhere in the United States—or anywhere on God's earth, for that matter—except from him, and he intends to charge us for it accordingly. I don't blame him. He is a business man. Moreover, he controls our whole enterprise and its success, as well as the nation's welfare. And, gentlemen, Mr. Gwyn is a man to depend on. It is worth two millions of dollars, to my mind, to have his support instead of someone else's. I demand, in your own interests, that you accept this proposition. If you refuse, you may carry out your own affairs—I shall withdraw entirely, and sever my connections with this enterprise. You may do as you please. Gentlemen, what is your answer?"

The effect of Balterman's threat to withdraw his influence and his capital was astounding. There was not a moment's hesitation. The proposition was accepted.

Balterman turned to Gwyn. "We accept. Are you prepared to start for the West on the Limited tonight?"

"I am prepared," he answered, "to start for anywhere in one hour. I am with you to the greatest extent of my power, and you can depend upon me absolutely. I need not say that I shall expect the same from you. I know I shall receive it."

Karl von Bleck, chief representative of the Central Powers, laid his newspaper on the desk before him and delved into thought. His secretary, seated at a desk nearer the door, tiptoed quietly from the room. When Von Bleck thought, he thought of grave and important things, and his secretary knew by precedent that he preferred to be alone.

Von Bleck, left alone, proceeded to read again the newspaper item which had so perturbed him. It seemed to stick from the rows of type in words that spelled the destruction of his nation, of his power, of his every interest; and yet he saw toward the last of it a ray of hope—the hope which he must make a reality. He read:

> The terrific power of the new allied shell is marvelous. It surpasses anything which the Central Powers have yet developed, and promises to be the nation's salvation in the present great conflict. This remarkable power is due to the new explosive, which has recently been invented, and, with this explosive, the munitions problem of the country will be revolutionized. The only drawback—which is truly a menacing danger—is the extraordinary small supply of cinnabar, the chief ingredient of this new explosive. . .

He rose from his chair, laughing, though more with scorn than mirth, and passed through a door at his back to an adjoining room. There, leaning over a long table, were his associates, ready to do his bidding, reading the code translation of a cable message they had just received and deciphered. They greeted their superior with dignity and relief. His mere presence and his austere mien were comforts to them.

Von Bleck was handed the cable, and he read it carefully. Then he smiled. His associates knew the meaning of that smile—they had seen it often on previous occasions. They knew, also, what the cablegram contained. Von Bleck spoke:

"The most important thing to our enemies, at the present time, is the perfection and supply of their new explosive. Therefore, naturally, the most important thing to us, at this moment, is the destruction of this explosive; we must render it impossible for it to be made. The easiest and most effective way for us to do this is to cut off the supply of cinnabar, which is the chief and scarcest ingredient used in the explosive. It seems almost impossible to obtain it. I learned but fifteen minutes ago, through a confidential agent, that the contract for cinnabar has been given to a young American engineer named Gwyn. He has been receiving shipments of it from the West, by the Santa Fe railroad. If we get Gwyn, and buy him off, or get his mine, we shall have accomplished our purpose. This cable, as you know, places at our disposal five millions of dollars to be used to this end. Gentlemen, I am going to locate this engineer and offer him more wealth that he ever dreamed of. You shall remain here until I return or you hear from me. Good day."

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF HUNTINGTON BEACH, ESTABLISHING THE OFFICE OF POUNDMASTER AND DEFINING HIS DUTIES, MAKING IT UNLAWFUL TO PERMIT CERTAIN ANIMALS TO RUN AT LARGE AND PROVIDING FOR IMPOUNDING FEES, DOG LICENSES AND FEES THEREFOR.

The Board of Trustees of the City of Huntington Beach does hereby ordain:

Section 1. The office of Poundmaster is hereby established and the City Marshal of Huntington Beach shall be Poundmaster.

Section 2. There shall be provided by the City a suitable enclosure to keep and safely hold all animals hereinafter enumerated and subject to be impounded, which shall be known and designated the City Pound.

Section 3. It is hereby declared unlawful for any ox, steer, calf, ass, bull, cow, horse, colt, jack, mule, sheep, goat or hog to run at large in the City of Huntington Beach, or to be pastured or herded, staked or tied in any of the streets, lanes, alleys, public squares, parks or other public places belonging to or under control of the City of Huntington Beach or in such a way as to trespass in any manner upon the aforesaid public places.

Section 4. It shall be the duty of the Poundmaster to take up, impound and safely keep any of the animals enumerated in Section 3 of this ordinance found running at large, staked, tied or being herded or pastured in any street, lane, alley, court, park or other place belonging to or under control of said City contrary to the provisions of Section 3 of this ordinance. When an animal is so impounded, the Poundmaster shall immediately notify the owner thereof, if known to him, and shall post three notices, one in front of the City Hall, of said City, and two other notices in other public places in said City of Huntington Beach. Said notices shall contain a description of said animal, and shall set forth that unless reclaimed said animal will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder, at a time and place to be specified in said notices, which time shall not be less than five (5) days nor more than ten (10) days from the posting of said notices, and if said animals are not reclaimed before the expiration of the time specified in said notices, the Poundmaster shall proceed to sell the same at the time and place and in the manner specified in said notices.

Section 5. The owner of any animal impounded shall have the right to reclaim the same at any time prior to the sale thereof upon payment to the Poundmaster of the costs and charges hereinafter provided in this ordinance for impounding and keeping said animals, or, if sold, to receive the proceeds of the sale thereof less the costs and charges aforesaid and costs of sale, within thirty (30) days after such sale, upon satisfactory proof of the ownership of said animals sold duly made before the City Clerk of the City of Huntington Beach.

Section 6. It shall be the duty of said Poundmaster to safely keep all animals impounded by him and to give the same necessary food and water and all ordinary attention necessary for the welfare of said animals.

Section 7. The Poundmaster shall collect from the owner, or any person seeking to reclaim any of the animals hereinafter mentioned, the following sums, to-wit: For impounding any horse, bull, ox, ass, cow, jack, mule, steer or colt, Two Dollars ($2.00) per head; for impounding any hog, sheep, goat or calf, One Dollar and Fifty Cents ($1.50) per head; for keeping any horse, bull, ox, ass, cow, jack, mule, steer or colt, Fifty Cents (.50) per head per day; for keeping any hog, sheep, goat or calf, Twenty-five Cents (.25) per head per day; for posting notices and sale of any of said animals, One Dollar ($1.00) each.

Section 8. It shall be unlawful for any person in the City of Huntington Beach owning or having charge, care or control of any female dog to allow same to run at large upon any street or public place in said City while said female dog is in heat.

Section 9. It shall be unlawful for any person, owning or having charge, care or control of any dog to have or to keep the same within the City of Huntington Beach, and no dog shall be permitted to be or remain within said City unless there shall be attached to such dog a collar on which there shall be a metal tag, obtained from the City Tax and License Collector of said City, as hereinafter provided, and inscribed as hereinafter provided. The said City Tax and License Collector is hereby authorized and directed to procure each year prior to the first day of April, such number of tags as may be sufficient for use during the year with the year plainly inscribed thereon. Said tags shall be effective until the 31st day of March of the year next ensuing, and no longer. Said Tax and License Collector shall furnish tags to the owners or persons having charge, care or control thereof, applying therefor prior to August 1st of the year for which such tag is issued or within four (4) calendar months of the time when the dog for which application is made was acquired by the applicant, for the sum of One Dollar and Fifty Cents ($1.50) for each male dog and for each spayed female dog, and Four Dollars ($4.00) for each female dog. If application is made after August 1st of the year for which such tag is issued, and more than four (4) calendar months after the dog, for which application is made, was acquired by the applicant, the fee therefor shall be increased Fifty Cents (.50) provided, that if application is made for a dog which has been brought into the City of Huntington Beach after October 1st of the year for which such tag is issued, the fee therefor shall be one-half of the regular fee as herein above provided. The City Tax and License Collector shall keep a register wherein shall be kept the name of the owner to whom tag has been issued and the number and date thereof.

Section 10. It shall be unlawful for any person not the owner thereof and without the consent of the owner thereof, to hold or retain possession of any dog for a longer period than twenty-four (24) hours, unless such person shall report the same with a true description thereof to the person in charge of the City Pound.

Section 11. When such dog be taken up by a Police Officer, it shall be delivered by him to the Poundmaster. All of said dogs shall be impounded in the public pound.

Section 12. The Poundmaster shall keep confined at the City Pound, properly provided with food and water, for three (3) days, all dogs impounded by him unless such dogs be redeemed by the payment of One Dollar ($1.00) pound fee, and a description of all dogs impounded shall be posted for three (3) days; if not redeemed within three (3) days after the description thereof has been so posted they shall be killed by the Poundmaster in some humane way and not in any other manner.

Section 15. Any person who shall imitate or counterfeit the tags in this ordinance provided for, or shall use any imitation or counterfeit of such tag, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding Fifty Dollars ($50.00) or by imprisonment for a period not exceeding fifty (50) days or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Section 16. Any person rescuing or attempting to rescue any animal mentioned herein from the possession of the Poundmaster while engaged in conveying the same to the City Pound, or after said animal is confined in said pound, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be fined in a sum not to exceed Fifty Dollars ($50.00) or by imprisonment for a period of not to exceed fifty (50) days or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Section 17. If an animal impounded under the provisions of this ordinance be not redeemed or sold within the time and in the manner specified in this ordinance, it shall be killed and disposed of by said Poundmaster in some humane way and in no other manner.

Section 18. Any person, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding Fifty Dollars ($50.00) or by imprisonment for a term not exceeding fifty (50) days or by both such fine and imprisonment.
